Research and KE Development Training Programme 2024/25 – (Summary) Brochure

As a signatory to the 2019 Concordat to Support the Career Development of Researchers QMU recognises that professional and career development are integral to enabling researchers to develop their full potential and has a commitment to:

- Provide opportunities, structured support, encouragement and time for researchers to engage in a minimum of 10 days professional development pro rata per year, recognising that researchers will pursue careers across a wide range of employment sectors.
- Ensure that researchers have access to professional advice on career management across a breadth of careers.
- Provide researchers with opportunities, and time, to develop their research identity and broader leadership skills.
- Recognise that moving between, and working across, employment sectors can bring benefits to research and researchers, and support opportunities for researchers to experience this.

This schedule of training has been developed by the Research and Knowledge Exchanged Development Unit (RKEDU) and is based on the priorities in the QMU Concordat to Support the Career Development of Researchers Action Plan 2022-25. We welcome feedback on our training programme or any of the workshops attended. Please send to rkedu@qmu.ac.uk.

Full details for workshops and registration is available on AdCal, which is a user-friendly web platform providing an overview of training opportunities and free workshops and events.

13	1000-1200	Project Management - in Research and KE	Effective project management is crucial for researchers at all stages of their careers. This intensive short course is designed to improve project management skills &amp; offers a comprehensive framework for initiating, planning, designing &amp; executing research projects effectively. Time management is a key component of the workshop, with strategies &amp; techniques to help researchers prioritise tasks, set realistic deadlines and maintain a productive research workflow. Recognising the unpredictable nature of research, the course also covers risk assessment, preparing participants to identify potential pitfalls and develop contingency plans to mitigate risks. A section of the session focusses on communication, especially in the context of interacting with stakeholders. In addition to traditional project management skills, the course introduces participants to a selection of relevant software and AI tools.

25	1000-1200	Time Management, Motivation and Prioritising	Time management and motivation is not about working more, it's about working smarter. This workshop is designed specifically for researchers who are interested in developing their time management skills and optimising their working hours. With research activities, keeping up with the literature, publishing, planning and writing to consider, it can be challenging for researchers to fit everything into their schedules. Participants will be introduced to techniques to optimise their time and be encouraged to discuss working patterns with others. In addition, they will cover the concept of work-life balance, working styles & budgeting time. The workshop will include individual exercises, short presentations from the instructor, group discussions & examples of good practice.	Dr Joanna Young – Electv Training	Online

21	1000-1200	Attracting Research Funding - Writing and Applying for Fellowships	How do you go about the process of applying for your own postdoctoral research fellowship? There is more to it than filling in an application form: you will have to propose and design an innovative project, identify an established researcher to sponsor you and approach them about being involved in your project, convince the application reviewers that you are the right person, name referees and more. To be successful requires planning and preparation and you will need to use your network and be proactive. This workshop is suitable for early career researchers and will include case studies, discussion of a sample application form, individual exercises and the instructor's own experience of successfully obtaining a postdoctoral research fellowship.	Dr Joanna Young – Electv Training	Online

Research Data Management Training for Researchers

There are a variety of online research data management resources that have been shared collaboratively between Scottish Universities, including:

- CESSDA - free online expert tour guide to data management
  - MANTRA – free online course on the fundamentals of good research data management
  - DCC Data management education and training list
  - Coursera – research data management and sharing course
- Essentials 4 Data Support – course on storing, managing, archiving and sharing research data

Research Data Management and Sharing – MOOC

This free five-week Coursera MOOC - created by the Universities of Edinburgh and North Carolina - is designed to reach learners across disciplines and continents. Subjects covered in the 5-week course follow the stages of any research project. They are:

- Understanding Research Data
- Data Management Planning
- Working with Data
- Sharing Data
- Archiving Data

The MOOC (The Massive Open Online Course) uses the Coursera on-demand format to provide short, video-based lessons and assessments across a five-week period, but learners can proceed at their own pace. Although no formal credit is assigned for the MOOC, Statements of Accomplishment will be available to any learner who completes a course for a small fee. <https://www.coursera.org/learn/data-management>.

Research Data MANTRA

MANTRA is a free, non-credit, self-paced course designed for postgraduate students and early career researchers which provides guidelines for good practice in research
